Small World Cultural Arts Collective

Annual Report 2014 to 2015

Welcome...

to another year of Small World working with creatively with young people. Still surviving the cuts and finding that more young people need support and that they need wider support than ever as the state of the nation continues to impact on the lives of those most in need.

We have had the end of When Words Fail, Music Speaks in April....but thanks to a second successful bid to Youth Music, Music Speaks Loud and Clear began in October with the music team keeping a regular session going in between on a voluntary basis.

May saw the start of Tune Up Chill Out, funded by Children In Need and staffed by Dawn and Cherita. This homework support group will work with groups of young people over three years to ensure they achieve their potential in education and personal development.

PitStop ran until September offering support to 1-17 year olds who are classed as NEETs. This is another development area though there was a realisation that funding for NEETs needed to be flexible to allow us to work more effectively with the young people involved.

We saw the end of 3 years of Big Art which included Saturday Club and Rock Band, a sad time as Chloes' role at Small World came to an end, and just as the attendance of young people had increased massively with a great diverse group coming regularly.

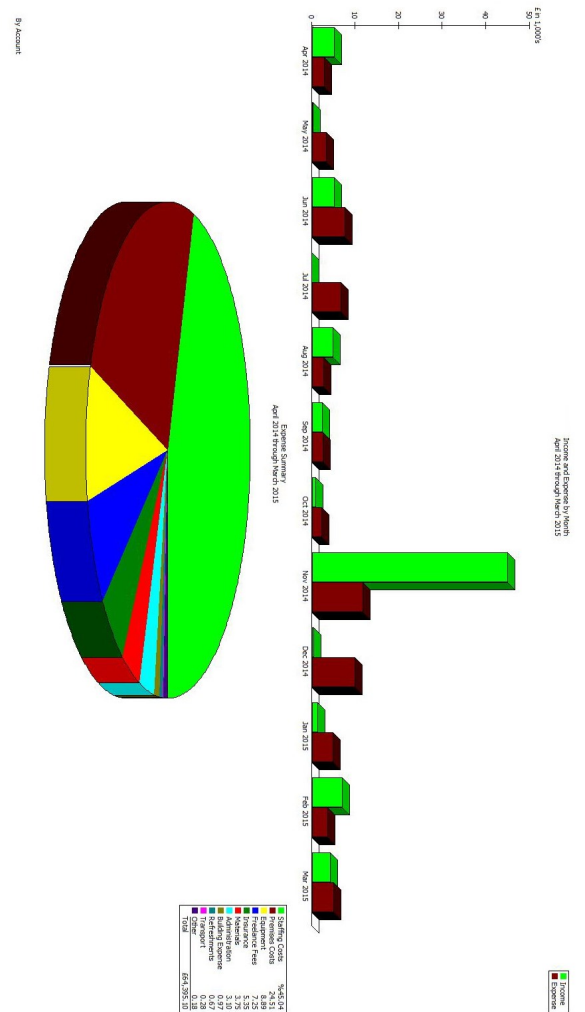

This year also saw another lantern Parade and community involvement in the Big Local project; an Exhibition of Postcards of Keighley at Cliffe Castle and continuation of work in Holycroft School.
